» Fairs have long been a mainstay in the success of the art and antiques industries, and at Ronati, our goal is to help this important industry thrive.

We're thrilled to bring you the autumn and winter 2023 edition of the Guide to Trade Fairs and Shows for Sellers of Art, Vintage and Antiques. This guide was created in partnership with Antiques News & Fairs (ANF), the leading global publication covering antiques fairs and shows in the UK and USA. Our purpose is to provide you with the information you need to select the best fair venues for exhibiting your business.

While Ronati focuses on technological solutions to help dealers succeed, we also look to ensure that our solutions benefit all constituents of the vintage and antiques industry, with trade fairs being one of the most important groups among them.

It was a very busy spring and summer fair season both in the USA and the UK and we're looking forward to the same for autumn and winter.

May you use this guide, as a buyer or a seller, to find venues to buy, sell, be inspired, and collaborate.

With joy,
Stacey Tiveron

The former, while focused primarily on books, also features strong contributions from some of the country's leading specialists in maps, prints, ephemera, manuscripts, and photographs. The latter is one of the preeminent fairs specialising in ephemera, again with a very strong representation from the other collectable sectors, including books and postcards. BOOK FAIRS IN EAST ANGLIA

Missing Book Fairs has been established since 1994 and in that time has organized over 500 events. The name was derived from the organizer - Chris Missing. It seemed fitting, as you are quite likely to find some of the books you are 'missing' when you come to one of the fairs!

Currently operating at 2 venues, you will generally find between 12 and 20 dealers exhibiting in a friendly and enjoyable atmosphere.

The Shrewsbury Flea Antique and Collectors Fair, held four times a year at the West Mid Showground, draws over 100 vendors and more than 4,000 visitors. Goods on sale cater to every taste and all budgets, featuring art works, vintage posters, antique and retro furniture, jewellery, magazines, silverware, vintage lamps, strollers, gardening equipment, old toys, ornaments, globes and many more decorative items and curios. Very much a typical flea market and everybody is exposed to the elements. However, come rain or shine, vendors always appear to have plenty of time for each shopper and a great time is had by all.

May's Antique Market operates three shows per year, featuring antiques and collectibles dealers from all over North America, Canada and Europe. Located in the heart of Brimfield, Massachusetts, the show is known for huge crowds and a unique opening: dealers wait until the gates open at 9am to unpack their antiques and collectibles, so everyone gets a chance at finding something fresh. Dealers sign up months in advance to secure their space on the field, and many have done so for over 40 years. The Modern Dulwich Show is a mecca for lovers of the midcentury era. Featuring some of the most collectable C20 art, jewellery, and furniture, with designs from Eames, Bertoia, Hans Wegner, and Aalto, one may even see stars from The Bidding Room and The Restorers behind some of the sixty-five spacious dealer stands. Upstairs there are more than two dozen top contemporary designers, all set off by stunning Brutalist architecture spilling into the Dulwich College cloisters beyond. With prices from £10 to £10,000, one design pundit described it as being “like the best museum shop you could ever visit.”

@so_last_century

So Last Century holds ten to twelve carefully curated vintage fairs and markets at several different locations in London each year. Since its inception in 2015, it has become a firm favorite with both visitors and dealers. Events are held at architecturally and historically interesting venues, from an unrestored Georgian manor house in Beckenham to a 1960s arts complex in Croydon. The largest are two-day shows at an independent school in Catford, South East London in spring, autumn, and late winter. Across two large halls, sixty dealers exhibit a wide range of high quality original vintage pieces.
